Product Feature

The slit shock pad features a closed-cell bubble structure with low water absorption, designed specifically for artificial turf fields. Its unique slit-cutting process, combined with a PET non-woven fabric backing, ensures excellent drainage, rapid installation, and high stability. The shock pad effectively compensates for expansion and contraction caused by temperature fluctuations; its closed-cell structure prevents water absorption, ensuring stable performance. Features high water permeability and enables horizontal drainage. The lightweight material allows for efficient and easy installation. The product complies with the European standard EN15330 and meets requirements for compressive strength, bowing & curling resistance, and impact resistance. Certified according to the standard, it guarantees structural integrity, long term durability and reliable performance under various environmental conditions.
